What is a Mule?
A customs ruling relates to that animal, the mule. An American contractor took some mules into Mexico for use upon some construction work there, and upon the completion of the contract brought the mules back to Texas. The customs officials insisted upon his paying duty, but the contractor claimed free entry for the mules as "articles of American growth returned without being any less in value." The official decided, however, that the board of appraisers had sustained them, that mules are not "articles." What, then, are they? If they are persons, they are certainly entitled to come back home. Since the decision that a hen is not a bird, the customs service has got its natural history fearfully and wonderfully mixed.

WORLD'S GREATEST FARM EXPOSITION

INTERNATIONAL DRY-FARMING
CONGRESS TO BE HELD AT TULSA OCT. 22-NOV. 1.

Every Continent and Every Race to Meet and Discuss and Compare Best Methods for Cultivating Semi-Arid Regions

The world's most important farm convention for 1913 will be held in Tulsa, Oklahoma, October 22 to November 1. Men from thirty nations will attend the eighth annual meeting of the International Dry-Farming Congress there and will tell about methods of farming in all regions of slight rainfall or occasional drought.

Official delegates are expected at Tulsa from every continent on the globe. China, whose farmers have tilled the same lands for forty centuries, will be officially represented by its minister of agriculture, Chun Sen Chan. Tunis, in north Africa, which has been a dry-farming region since the time of Hammurabi, will have representatives in Tulsa to learn even more of the science which its farmers have practiced for 2,500 years. Persia, whose agriculture is as old as history, will have at least two delegates, including the Mirza Ali Kuli Khan. Palestine will send its greatest agriculturist, Dr. Aaron Aronsohn, who today conducts a huge farm on land which the shepherds used in the time of Christ.

Fourteen governors of states and scores of congressmen have accepted invitations to be present. On top of all these will be tens of thousands of actual farmers who will come from every state in the Union and from every province in Canada to study methods whereby they may increase the yields per acre on their own farms.

The great farm meeting at Tulsa will be held in nine sections, beginning October 27 and lasting five days. The Exposition held in connection with it will begin five days earlier, on October 22, and will last until November 1. One sectional meeting will be devoted entirely to talks about soils, tillage methods and farm machinery.

In other sectional meetings will be studied the home breeding and selection of seeds, live stock and dairying, feed and forage crops, farm forestry, the right kind of education for country boys and girls, farm management and farm engineering.

The real purpose of the International Dry-Farming Congress and of its meetings is to teach methods for the conquest of drought. It has nothing to do with politics, colonization or religion. It is not an agricultural college, neither does it conduct experiment or demonstration farms. It merely collects from all possible sources the available information about methods whereby farmers may increase their yields per acre, the quality of their crops and their bank accounts in all regions of light or irregular rainfall. It then passes this information on, through its annual conventions and its publications, to the farmers in many nations.

The International Congress now has offices in nineteen nations and members in sixty and its influence for the development of farming methods is world-wide. Its work is of especial importance through the southwestern states, all of which are subject to occasional drought which in many seasons cuts the profits out of farming. In even the driest years, however, thousands of farmers are making good through the practice of the new methods which are revolutionizing agriculture. These farmers will be at Tulsa and will help in making the Eighth Congress and Exposition the most important meeting of its kind ever held on the American continent.

We are pleased to announce to the public that we are now prepared to put out a first-class line of high grade job work, not surpassed by any printing office in town. We have engaged the services of an old-time fine art printer, who is well known in Missouri and elsewhere for his high class workmanship in the printing business. We can now accept job work from out-of-town printers and deliver it to them in a remarkably short time, always guaranteeing perfect satisfaction in both workmanship and in the price.

When you buy clothes and groceries you look for the place where you are sure of good material and reasonable prices. You should be just as particular about your printing.

We can save you money on your job printing and at the same time guarantee satisfaction.

Give us a trial and we will make a regular customer of you.

We print anything, any size, any time. No job too large or too small to receive our careful attention.
